A series of author talks and writing workshops in Derbyshire Libraries

Writing workshops for adults

Sat 30 May

Caroline Pitcher Writing for Children

Dronfield Library, 10-12.30pm

Are you writing for children, for the market, or for yourself? Children's literature offers a wide range to the imagination. There are so many possibilities for the writer and reader of all ages. I don't believe we lose our vibrant childhood just because we reach 18 or 21. In this workshop, let's talk about these possibilities and play around with some ideas.

Caroline is an award-winning writer who has had many books published across the age range, from toddlers to young adults. Her latest novel is The Shaman Boy. www.carolinepitcher.co.uk

Tickets: £4/£3 concessions Available from Dronfield Library on 01246 414 001

Wed 10 June

River Wolton, Derbyshire Poet Laureate Writing the Past into Life

The Magic Attic Archives, Sharpe's Pottery Museum, Swadlincote, 10am-3.30pm

Are you interested in family and local history? Would you like tips on transforming your research into compelling stories? Offering starting points for fiction and non-fiction this writing workshop includes a tour of the Magic Attic's unique local history archive led by Graham Nutt. Those new to writing and to the Attic are welcome.

River is a writer and poet. Several of her Laureate commissions have involved research into local and oral history.

Tickets: £4/£3 concessions Available from Swadlincote Library on 01283 217 701 Lunch is not provided.

Crime Scene East Midlands

A regional crime reading promotion featuring books either set in the East Midlands or by writers based here. Alongside an exciting range of mysteries, crimes and thrillers available in our libraries, we have organised a series of events and workshops.

Thurs 11 June

Anne Perry

Mary Swanwick Hall, Old Whittington, 7.30 - 8.45pm

Well-known writer of Victorian murders and the William Monk novels, Anne's latest book is Execution Dock. Anne will be talking about her books and writing career.

Tickets: £4/£3 concessions Available from Old Whittington Library on 01246 454 412

Writing workshop

Chesterfield Library, 2.30 - 4.00pm

Ever wanted to write your own murder mystery? Anne will be sharing tips and ideas in this writing workshop. Whether you're a beginner or have been writing for a while come along and be inspired.

Tickets: £4/£3 concessions Available from Chesterfield Library on 01246 209 292

Thurs 11 June

Murder at the Library with Crème de la Crime

New Mills Library, 7.30 - 9.30pm

Gym instructor and part-time lothario, Rob Harkness, has been found dead at the leisure centre. The police don't have a clue. They need help; can you provide it? Come along and solve the mystery using witness statements and other evidence. Earn points for every element of the mystery you solve - and points mean prizes...

Test your sleuthing skills with friends and family. Come as a team or form one on the night. Suitable for ages 13 plus. www.cremedelacrime.com

Tickets: £3/2 concessions

Available from New Mills Library on 01663 743 603

Mon 6 July

Simon Beckett

Heanor Library, 7.30 - 9pm

Simon will be talking about his work. He is the author of The Chemistry of Death, which was shortlisted for last year's "Theakstons Old Peculier" Crime Novel of the Year Award. His gripping new Dr David Hunter novel is Whispers of the Dead. www.simonbeckett.com

Tickets: £4/£3 concessions Available from Heanor Library on 01773 712 482

Wed 8 July

Rod Duncan Midsummer Murder at Hadfield

Hadfield Library, 2 - 4.30pm

During the workshop the group will plan a crime novel or screenplay developing characters, background, and an outline plot. Focussing more on imagination than writing the session will give you a good understanding of how narrative works and ideas for writing your own crime fiction. And hopefully you'll have fun along the way!

Rod Duncan writes fiction, non-fiction, and screenplays. His first novel, Backlash, was shortlisted for the John Creasy Memorial prize for debut crime novel of the year. His most recent publication is The Mentalist. www.rodduncan.blogspot.com

Tickets: £4/£3 concessions Available from Hadfield Library on 01457 852 589
